TWO DROWNED.

A Distressing Tragedy at the Back River Yesterday.

MAN AND YOUNG GIRL DROWNED

While Out Boating—Thomas Willard and Miss Mary Litter, of Aetnaville, are the Victims—Another Boy and Girl Have Narrow Escapes—Rescued by Aetna-Standard Mill Men—Bodies of the Two Victims Recovered Last Night.

Thomas G. Willard and Miss Mary Litter, of Aetnaville, Bridgeport, were drowned in the back river yesterday afternoon. They were riding in a flatboat with Willard's son Fred and Miss Maggie Ray, of Bellaire. The boat upset and the two last named were rescued.

These two persons took a ride up the river in a flat boat yesterday afternoon, and while returning and when coming down the back river opposite the Aetna-Standard mill about 4 o'clock, Willard, who had been drinking, rocked the boat and it upset.

Willard went down and was not seen until his lifeless body was found. Mary Litter, a fourteen-year-old girl, who resided with her step-father, Charles Milbert, in Aetnaville, was seen go down two or three times, and finally disappear.

Some of the workmen in the mill yelled for them to catch hold of the boat and this the Ray girl did, after going down two different times, and she was rescued by James Halston, a machinist in the mill, who got a shift and saved her life.

The Willard boy was picked up by an Island man who rowed to the scene in a johnboat.

Three of the parties screamed for help and it seems that the man Willard made no effort to save himself.

The river bank was soon lined with people from Aetnaville, Bridgeport, and Martin's Ferry, and searching parties were quickly organized and the river dragged with grab hooks.

A seine was also used and used, but this caught on the stumps and other obstructions and was abandoned.

The body of the Litter girl was found with a grab hook by William Edwards and John Clink, both mill employees, within an hour after the drowning, and these same young men also recovered Willard's body shortly before 6 o'clock.

Miss Litter's body was taken from her home near the upper part of the old mill shortly after it was found. The body of Willard was taken his home near the old watch works some time after it was recovered. Coroner Reece Furbay held the inquest and rendered a verdict in accordance with the facts.

The drowned man had only one child, and this was the fourteen-year-old boy whose life was saved. Willard quarreled with his wife yesterday morning, and she went to the home of relatives in Bellaire, where she was when the drowning took place. He was 41 years old, was a bricklayer by trade and was until recently secretary of the Bricklayers union of Bellaire.

He had been employed as a bricklayer in the Aetna-Standard mills, coming from Bellaire about two years ago. He was a member of Clement lodge No. 129 I. O. O. F., of Bridgeport, and was also a member of the Sons of St. George.

Mr. Erb Won First Prize.

Mr. Peter Erb, the well known liveryman of this city, was deservedly proud last night. He had returned from the Potomac fair, where he had captured the first prize offered for the best gentleman's driving team. The offer stipulated that the successful team must be the handsomest match and best drivers, and Mr. Erb's beautiful pair of sorrel mares proudly stepped off with the first honors.
